

What's the difference between an athletic person and an athlete?

An athletic person relies on their talent; an athlete relies on hard work.

An athletic person only does what they feel like; an athlete does what needs to be done.

An athletic person only cares about her results; an athlete wants to push others to reach their goals.

An athletic person spends her time, an athlete invests her time.

An athletic person's results are given to them by God; an athlete's results are earned.

To an athletic person, sport is something they do. To an athlete, a sportsman is who they are.

An athletic person gets a medal; an athlete gets a lifetime of rewards.

While games can be won with athletic people, championships are won with athletes.

Are you an athletic person or an athlete?

By Marty Ogden